PACKERS ANSWER REPORT CHARGES

Statement Issued by Leading Chicago Firms.

packers were quick to make reply to the charges in President Roosevelt's message to Congress, and to the report of his commissioners on the conditions they have found at the stock yards. The message and report had no sooner become public than a conference was called in the offices of the National Packing Company, in the Rokery building, at which representatives of eight leading packing concerns Rokery building, at which representa-tives of eight leading packing concerns assembled to prepare an answering statement for the public.

Accompanying the statement sent out at the conclusion of the conference was a report by two experts in reply to the detailed allegations of the Neill-Reynolds report. This report has been made to the packers by Prof. T. J. Burrill, vice president of the University of Illinois and professor of bacteriology there, and Prof. H. S. Grindley. professor of chemistry in the same university, the latter being one of the most prominent food specialists in the country. Their investigation of conditions at the stock yards lasted two days, and according to the packers, was made at the initiative of the university men shortly after the Government experts had finished their work

Bad Meat Sales Denied.

In their statement the packers accuse President Roosevelt of absolutely ignor-ing in his message the question whether diseased meats are sold from the packing houses. The same question, the packers declare, is all but omitted from the Neill-Reynolds report. With this complaint the packers express themselves in favor of a more efficient inspection at the slaughtering houses, and of an extension of the laws to cover the sanitary conditions. While insisting that their methods are good, the packers profess their readiness to adopt any practical suggestions in the line of improvements.

A general denial is made of the charges of uncleanliness and insanitary conditions.

Stories Hurt Trade.

In their statement the packers say:
"The truth must be told and told emphatically if the entire meat and live stock industry is to have a 'square deal' and escape further danger. Yet this vital side of the whole question is absolutely ignored in the President's message and all but emitted the president's message, and all but omitted from no-tice in the Neill-Reynolds report.

"Every pound of meat in our packing houses comes from animals which are inspected and passed by trained veterinary agents of the Department of Agriculture. Every animal or carcass that does not pass this rigid inspection is condemned and disposed of under the personal supervision of the agents of the United States Department of Agriculture.

the United States Department of Agriculture.

"The Administration at Washington knows these facts. The writers of the Neill-Reynolds report know them. That these are the facts is reluctantly admitted in their report, but even this slight reassurance to the public is almost buried in the tall end of what they have written.

"We have been believers in rigid animal and meat inspection since investigations."

"We have been believers in rigid ani-mal and meat inspection since inspec-tion was first inaugurated."

Differ as to Dirt.

"Our packing houses are kept clean. Our methods of manufacture are sanitary. Our products are wholesome. On all of these points we have over and over again satisfied doctors, chemists, sanitarians, and official investigators from practically every civilized nation on earth, and in doing so we have made a world-wide market for American live stock products.

a world-wide market for American live stock products.

"We have steadily and persistently endeavored to improve our methods. We claim that we are doing everything that can be done, and as fast as it can be done, to secure the best possible methods and the best possible refults. In the light of what we have done and are doing we have a right, we believe, to protest against hasty and empirical judgments, that serve only to put weapons into the hands of foreign competitors of the American live stock and meat producing industry.

"There has never been any secret about our methods of manufacture. For thirty years the packing houses of Chicago have been wide open to the world. They have been among the great show places of this country.

"Since Government inspection was first inaugurated inspectors have been installed in all of our plants and have had access to every part of these plants. They have always been free to criticise and suggest, and we can say in all truth that every practical change of method suggested by them has been immediately put into effect.

The statement goes on to tell of the use of Chicago beef by the armies of the world and continues:

"Our own army and navy have been regular customers of Chicago packing houses for thirty years, without a word of complaint except on one occasion. At the close of the Spanish-American war the wholesomeness of these products was questioned by certain officers in an attack similar to the one now made upon us. After a thorough investigation, covering several months, a court of inquiry made up-of eminent officers of the army found that the allegations against our products were utterly unfounded.

The statement is signed by Armour & Co., Morris & Co., G. H. Hammond Company, Omaha Packing Company, Libby, McNeill & Libby, and the Schwarzschild & Sulzberger Company.

BUTCHER PLAYWRIGHT MAKES HIT IN CHICAGO

Work Arouses Real

CHICAGO, June 7.—A Hungarian play-wright and poet who has wooed, and, to some extent, won the muse while working at his regular vocation as a butcher, made his bow to a Chicago audience recently, when one of his plays was presented at Steinway Hall, by the Hungarian Singing Society, of Chicago. Paul Barek is the man whose work has attracted the attention of American dramatists, and several of his works are in process of translation, with a view of being presented in English. "Biro Lanya," or "The Judge's Daughter," a romantic drama in three acts, is the play presented this week. It has scored a success.

Barek was called before the curtain at the end of the second act, and re-CHICAGO, June 7 .- A Hungarian play-

WROTE SONG TO WIN

Sweetheart" and Received the Desired Answer.

PHILADELPHIA, June 7.—Whatever songs William J. Lancaster, a young musician, may compose in the future, his favorite selection is sure to be "Tell Me, Sweetheart." which he wrote and dedicated to "B! E. N." several months ago. Subsequently, developments showed that "B. E. N." was Bertha Eulalis Nashe, and that she listened to the plea of her lover to "Tell Me, Sweetheart." She did not tell him much; she only said "Yes," which was really all he wanted her to say. They were married secretly three months ago by the Rev. George Wolfe, the "marrying parson" of Wilmington.

Mr. Laccaster is a member of the choir of St. Paul's Episcopal Church at Overbrook and is employed by John B. Ellison & Co. Mr. and Mrs. Lancaster are boarding at 4622 Chestnut street.
